Netgrocer, at www.grocery.com, is an American nationwide supermarket that offers groceries, a drug store and general merchandise. Because the company ships anywhere in the United States, it does not, as yet, offer fresh produce or meat over the Internet. Only packaged food is available. The student will be able to select items while the web site automatically adds the subtotal as purchases progress. In this lesson, students first make a shopping list and then attempt to “order” appropriate items.

What should I do?

1. Go to www.netgrocer.com/. Before we go “shopping,” let’s find out some basic information about the company. First, before you do anything else, look at the passage below from the web site and try to fill in the blanks. Then click on New Visitors Get to know us. To find the complete paragraph, look under the heading Help someone else and check your answers.

2. “Why is Netgrocer.com safe?” In the second paragraph, you’ll find one word that describes why Netgrocer is “safe.” You can see that word twice, the first time as a noun and the second time as a past participle. Write the word here, in either form:
